Resolution Asking for Investigation of Lobby Activities Before Ohio House of Representatives.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, April 22.—A House committee is investigating the activities of the Ohio State Bar Association in requesting that the House of Representatives investigate lobbying in favor of a bill to pension off state judges. The bill, introduced by Rep. George H. Kunkel (R-Kent) on April 10, would set up a pension fund for retired judges.

The house has already voted to consider the bill, and the Senate has voted to postpone consideration of the bill.

U.S. PILOT BAGS 7 LPS IN ONE FIGHT

F. Sweet Sets Record in South Pacific.

Associated Press
SOUTH PACIFIC BASE
— First Lieut. J. E. A. Sweet, Marine Corps, pilot, shot down Japanese dive-bomber in this war for one single air action—
the enemy attack in the Guadalcanal island area.

A detailed account of Sweet's action is contained in official report released yesterday by the commanders of Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr., commander-in-chief, U. S. Naval Forces in the South Pacific.

With ammunition gone, his plane disabled and his radio and signaling system riddled, Sweet finally glided his Grumman fighter through smoke and fire from American gunners to make a landing in the water. The heroic pilot was rescued from the sea and treated at a hospital for minor injuries.

At least 30 enemy planes (as preliminary report from Washington April 12) were destroyed in the furious action. The estimated Americans lost about 100 planes. Pilots of six of these were rescued.

Bill To Limit Terms
in White House KilledBy The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—The house elections committee yesterday killed two resolutions asking the federal Constitution be amended to limit terms of presidents to two four-year terms. The vote, on a motion to postpone the resolution indefinitely, was 5 to 4.

The resolutions asked that congress be memorialized to call conventions for the purpose of ratifying the amendment.

The elections committee also indefinitely postponed action on a bill to lessen the requirements for holding a referendum on horse-racing. The bill would have reduced from 35 per cent to 12 per cent the number of signatures required on petitions calling for a referendum.

HEAR HITLER PREPARES GAS

London Told Nazis Are Moving Supplies of It to Russia; Warn of Reprisals.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 10.—Asserting that Hitler's greatly increased stocks of gas were not part of his tanking preparations for war.

The Berlin Broadcasting Co. said the danger of the gas was not past. Hitler planned to use gas in his campaign against the German people when every effort of their leaders had failed to stop Hitler's march on Britain.

Warns German People

issued by Prime Minister Churchill, declared still from 10 Downing Street and "gas warfare" was an extraordinary weapon, but their gas stocks were when every morning at the outbreak of war, Britain was equipped with every kind of gas.

The British Ministry of Supply, cautioning them to be prepared, said the danger of the gas was not past. Hitler planned to use gas in his campaign against the German people when every effort of their leaders had failed to stop Hitler's march on Britain.

British resources and scale of development of gas warfare were not known, but more from "general sources."

A Soviet official, meanwhile, declared "we have passed on to the British foreign office information that supplies of gas recently have been reaching the German armies on the Russian front."

Shortly less than a year ago, this is the conclusion of Charles E. MacQuigg, director of the engineering experiment that the Germans were testing the use of gas in the Crimea, where the official Russian State University, in a letter to the Associated Press, said German troops had used gas against the Chinese, who, in turn, had used gas against the Chinese.

General Roosevelt recently a plan to develop coal and other resources of the state.

Saying the country is beginning to recognize a need for research in the field of hydrogenation, MacQuigg reported the stage had emerged two fuel experiments prepared to help develop the process.

Brennan said he asked MacQuigg for information regarding the development of coal after a conference with President Roosevelt, in which the Chief Executive expressed interest in a plan to establish new industries in southern Ohio.

Preliminary calculations, said the letter, indicate hydrogenated coal might be considered within commercial reach, contrary to earlier estimates.

When George Washington became president of the United States the nation had no navy.

Booby Trap Lesson as Taught in U. S. Army's Ranger School

NORMAN BRADLEY
Associated Press Features
OF FORREST, TENN.—The lesson today is the Booby Trap. It's part of the curriculum. Second Army's Ranger School, established here by Lieut. Gen. S. Lear.

Student rangers learn their hard way. If they bump into a trap, a nicely camouflaged charge—resulting explosion—removes but the fatality.

They are also taught how to detect enemy first; how to lay for him, unseen in their sky-colored camouflage which blend perfectly with the ground.

Method of Operation
"Does a boobytrap work?" There are many combinations, but the main idea is to set a death dealing explosive with some apparently inoffensive article which almost any man is likely to touch through the necessity of curiosity.

In a demonstration shack tool which is rigged up with lots of traps. A liquor bottle on the table, but this house will fall in on the soldier before he takes a drink. The pressure of his hand on the wall makes the contact for another booby trap.

Of course, the rangers also are taught how to construct these traps to trip the enemy indefinitely—but booby traps are set principally by retreating armies and the rangers aren't counting on doing much retreating.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE GETS LEGISLATIVE RECOGNITION

Measure Signed By Governor Of Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 22.—A measure giving recognition to the practice of Christian Science, as accorded it in most other states, has been signed by Gov. Walter W. Bacon of Delaware.

As originally constituted, the bill was to be an amendment to the existing Delaware Medical Code. In this form it was passed by the senate, but the house of representatives objected to making it part of the Medical Code and preferred to write a new bill, putting it in a section of its own. When it was rewritten, it incorporated the words "Christian Science" where they had not been mentioned before. The substitute measure finished its successful trip through both houses last week. It provides:

"That it will be lawful for any person treating human ills in accordance with the tenets of Christian Science to make an adequate charge for any services so performed."

Before passage of the measure, Christian Science practitioners in Delaware were dependent for revenue upon contributions from those they helped.

The material advantages gained by passage of the bill are the least part of its meaning. William F. Clymer, of the Christian Science committee on publication for the state of Delaware, said: "It is more far-reaching than a merely local action. The greatest significance is that it establishes one more state in the Union which has extended recognition to Christian Science. Passage of the measure is further evidence of right activity prevailing and the principles of fairness and democracy and religious freedom winning. The effect can only be to pave the way for growth in appreciation of spiritual power."

LARUE REPORTS 3 BURGLARIES

Loot Totaling $160 Taken in Series of Break-ins Early Today.

Special to The Star

LARUE, April 22.—More than $160 in money, a quantity of wine and cigars were taken yesterday from three different houses by burglars, one in the between 1 a. m. and 7 a. m. today. At the Al's, after restaurant and lounge, 100 N. Main, the loot taken from the bar, the kitchen and the cigar and cigarette room, and the entire stock of cigarettes. At the dozen 50-cent cigar store, 516 W. Main, the burglar took $100 and at the Blue Bell Garage a gold cigarette holder. The burglar was discovered by the owners when he tried to open the safe in the three places was among the breaking the locks of the door down. Sheriff's deputies were called to investigate.

Caught Flat-Footed

The sky behind the bomber was decked with six bursting blossoms of black smoke, and only two were ahead of it. That was the story as we got it from the Japanese themselves, and from Americans who watched elsewhere. The defenders were caught flat-footed, contrary to the Yomiuri story that "everything went smoothly." They had no planes in the air when the first bombers appeared, and the anti-aircraft fire was "late" all the way across the city.

Another story was that "enemy" used fire bombs more than demolition bombs, fire bombs being about a kiro in size." That is the Japanese version of a kilo (2.2 pounds) and fancies with the theory that the planes were so heavily loaded with gasoline there wasn't much room for the heavier bombs.

"This was first experience in meeting the enemy," the story continued. "It is hoped the people will prepare with a great deal of care for future attacks."

That was a constantly reiterated theme: Prepare for future attacks.

The first line of the army communiqué, printed under a bold, black headline on the front page, said:

"NO DAMAGE DONE TO IMPERIAL HOUSEHOLD."

I can point out from seeing the Newsweek picture, that damage could have been done to the police, for the downtown plane wasn't but a few seconds flight away, but the plane was left alone on direct orders from Major General James H. Doolittle, who ruled it was not a military objective.

Defenses Strengthened

Tokyo's anti-aircraft defenses were strengthened, perhaps doubled or tripled, immediately after the raid. When I was taken to court in May, I could see watchers and guns on many downtown building roofs, and an especially strong defensive battery had been installed on the diet. This all happened, according to people who were free in Tokyo at the time, after the raid.

One other thing the pictures show clearly is that the volunteer squadrons of housewives and schoolboys and shopkeepers who were organized and trained long before the war did their work effectively.

The baggy uniforms of the Japanese women may seem grotesque to us, but they are cheap, costing about 15 yen ($4), and they do cover the inflammable kimono from ankle to neck. To speed up their work, the air-said warships ride bicycles. They have cardboard megaphones tied to their faces. Night after night during the fall of 1941 they went through their drills, often standing guard after a test alarm until 1 a. m.

One small picture in Yomiuri was captioned as part of a plane that was shot down. This has been denied by the war department in Washington, and later when a freshly-painted plane was placed on exhibition in Tokyo and Kobe, even the Japanese were skeptical. The Yomiuri account called the planes Lockheed Hudsons, instead of the correct North American B-25 designation.

HARDIN CO. SOLDIER KILLED IN ACTION

Cpl. Clyde Link of Near Kenton African War Victim.

KENTON, O., April 22.—The second Hardin county man yesterday reported a history of combat action, but in reality he was the first from the county to die in conflict abroad instead of in Mrs. Lorene A. Gorman of Kenton, who was reported killed in action in defense of our country in North American area April 15.

A wire from the office of Adjutant General Ohio reported to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Link, north of Kenton, that their son, Corporal Clyde G. Link, 27, had been killed in action April 4 in the North African area, where he was a member of a field artillery unit.

Cpl. Link was inducted Aug. 17, 1941, and received his training at Fort Bragg, N. C. He left overseas service last August, arriving at Morocco, Africa, in November, 1942, where he later went home, he and his unit engaged in three days of furious fighting to effect a landing.

Surviving the young man are his parents, four sisters and five brothers, including three in the service—Pvt. Claude E. Link, Camp Swift, Tex., Pfc. Charles J. Link in Long Beach, Calif., and Staff Sergeant Claude W. Link, who served 11 months in a medical unit in India before being sent home for an operation. He now is in Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C.

BRITISH

Rommel Entrenched

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis troops have dug themselves into a series of elaborate fortifications along all the approaches to Tunis and the allied drive to the sea seemed destined to be slow and costly.

Important positions on the fringes of the mountain barrier defended by Rommel already have fallen to Montgomery's experienced campaigners, who have launched forward in the face of concentrated fire from mortars and heavy machine guns. But the Eighth Army is attacking in country where all the natural features of the terrain favor the defenders.

A two-mile advance in the region of Djebel Gued, 10 miles inland from the coast, was made in very severe fighting, and British forces have driven five miles northwest of Bizerte to encircle the mountain citadel of Takrouna.

Nazis Control Heights

Even after the axis deep southern defense line is pierced, there will still remain the rugged heights of Djebel Zaghouan, the highest mountain in Tunisia, from which the Germans could shell any movement in the vicinity.

One factor favoring the allied forces was the domination of Tunisia's skies by British and American fliers.

The Germans were aided temporarily by sleet and snow storms which restricted aerial activity over a large part of the axis strength. In the three days ending Tuesday, allied planes had destroyed a total of 151 enemy aircraft.

It was further stated that the death penalty was commuted for British light naval escort German submarines.

Our ships once again are strung out in peaceful formation, flying the "all clear" white flags for the first time in three days. May be there will be some sleep to night.

Thirteen times between dusk and dawn the Nazis drove at us in packs numbering from six to 12 each. Thirteen times they were turned back by deafening barrages of depth charges that jolted even our big ships like toy boats in a bath tub.

They declined, however, to say which men had been executed or what disposition had been made of their bodies.

Notice Period Ignored

The State Department's reply, given the Swiss to convey to Tokyo, recalled the obligations Japan has assumed regarding treatment of military prisoners: the promise that the protecting power (the Swiss) must be given three weeks notice before a prisoner is tried, that a representative of the protecting power must be allowed to be present—all the other provisions of conventions concerning treatment of prisoners.

It observed:

The Japanese government has not complied with any!

As for the accusations against the prisoners, the State Department said the American forces had instructions to attack only military objectives and it is known they did not deviate from these orders.

Torture Sometimes Used

The government of the United States brands as false the charge that American aviators intentionally have attacked noncombatants anywhere," it said, adding:

"There are numerous known instances in which Japanese official agencies have employed brutal and bestial methods in extorting alleged confessions from persons in their power. It is customary for those agencies to use statements obtained under torture, or alleged statements, in proceedings against the victims."

Director Elmer Davis of the Office of War Information said the promise to punish those responsible for the executions covers civilians as well as military personnel but does not extend to the emperor of Japan. Davis said it was his opinion that no subordinate had ordered the executions without the consent of high government officials, who would be held responsible for the act.

Asked by reporters if this included the emperor, he replied:

"I would not think so. I don't think the emperor has anything more to say about what goes on in Japan than you or I."

The small-statured, wiry captain still flashes with satisfaction over the compliment he received when Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was seated in London.

"That's the best damn meal I've ever had," the general exclaimed after sitting down to one of the McCormick-managed tables.

McCormick has the assistance of Lieuts. J. W. Breyer of Baltimore, Md., and John L. Loper of Minneapolis, Minn.

McCormick, native of Zanesville, O., was raised in Asheville, N. C., went to school at Ohio university in Athens, O., worked in a Daytona Beach, Fla., bank from 1925-30 and then moved to Columbus, O., where he lived from 1930-40.

During the depression he worked as office manager for a Columbus engraving company and taught night school. In 1933, he returned to banking with the federal farm credit administration, making bank examinations in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

McCormick went back to Florida in 1940, building a home at new Smyrna Beach, near Daytona Beach. He has a wife and two children, Betty Ellen, 10, and Dorothy Mae, 7.

Everyone's Responsibility

To the Readers of The Star

The 10 billion per month loan is the responsibility of every one of us.

As Americans, we expect the government every dollar we can during these next few weeks. No matter how much or how little the pay checks are, each of us must do his part.

The money is urgently needed to back up our armed forces, to finance the wages they must have, to feed and care for them.

We are asked to give up luxuries and even to curtail our travel in a way the sacrifices our men in the armed forces are making on the fighting fronts.

Remember: They give their lives—we are only asked to lend our money.

Only you know how much you can lend. Don't wait for someone to come around and ask you to do your part.

Do it today. Do it gladly. Do it to the utmost of your capacity.

Do it knowing that upon how much you do depends a large extent how quickly we win this war.

EASTER'S MEANING TODAY—2: The Betrayal

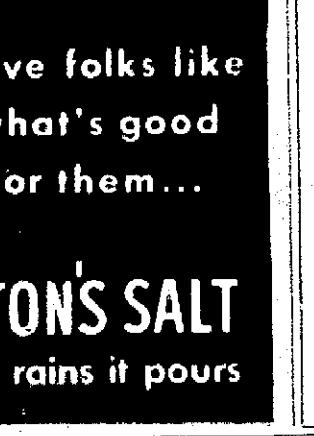

...and the day when Jesus was betrayed by Judas, the traitor, to the chief priests, who then sold him to the Romans for 30 pieces of silver. This was a most tragic day in the history of the world. It was a day of great sorrow for the people of God. But it was not the end of the story for Jesus or for the spiritual power of God. This day did not mean to be a tragic end, but just a tremendous offering that made possible the resurrection of Jesus. They killed Jesus, of course. Men hate to have their leaders揭露 even more to leave their graft exposed and their power and prestige diminished. But after Good Friday came Easter, after the crucifixion, the resurrection. Jesus died as He lived, in witness to the truth and the truth did not fail Him. The world gained a new vision of God—the God who is the Father of us all—the God who was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself. The love that killed Jesus are still with us but greater than us from them, is the faith in God these sins, and destined to save that entered the world through His Son.

One of a series of our pre-Easter articles. Tomorrow "The Crucifixion."

KENTON—James A. Clement, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Clement of near LaRue, was commissioned a second Lieutenant and received his wings as a pilot in the U. S. army air force at the recent graduation services of Williams Field, Chandler, Ariz. His mother was at the graduation exercises.

Getting Best Out of Eggs

ALICE DENHOFF says with the eating more eggs since Spring's soft-boiled and Scotch omelets with spice in mind has been inspired by necessity to go in for cooking on small scale. "I provide eggs for the people when a metropolitan housewife turned a home complete with chicks. Cooked like a tremendous sale event, it's become experts in the egg," she says. "Even if we don't eat it, the highly proportioned cooking is done in numbers, perhaps without us to what happens next. It is impeded or stopped. A slogan for the egg, which means instead of violent boiling."

Waffles and Waffle Shortcake Recipe

ALICE DENHOFF says it's time you're saving on other foods, then meat and the bill and give a little account of them. They make many a meal, thrifty and delicious, they carry a load of vitamins, minerals and protein and waffle shortcake is good to eat. Leftover hash meat, browned and then in a cream sauce, is a real winner between crisp waffles.

Waffles and Waffle Shortcake to me is the first good news. Take 1 1/2 cups medium white flour, stir in 1/2 cup leftover gravy and 2 teaspoons Worcester sauce, and bring to a boil in a little milk or water if necessary. Add 2 cups cooked hash meat or one pound veal, breast, flank, neck or shoulder. Heat thoroughly. If meat is used cut meat into small cubes and saute in hot oil. Add 1/2 cup water, cover, and simmer for 30 minutes. Use gravy to make gravy. Beef gravy may be used in place of veal. To dress up dish, add macaroons, almonds or pineapples or garnish with hard-cooked egg yolks.

Curried Lamb
Curried lamb with rice is a special dish, savory and filled with nourishment. To serve 6-8 oz. 2 pounds of lean lamb meat, shoulder or neck, and brown in 2 tablespoons hot fat. When with boiling water add salt and pepper, one cup diced celery, small sliced onions, and tea-spoon chopped parsley. Cover and cook slowly for 2 hours or until meat is tender. Strain stock, reserving 2 cups. Mix 1/4 cup flour and one teaspoon curry powder, add 2 tablespoons cold water, and blend. Stir into stock and cook until thick. Add meat mixture and serve with fluffy steamed rice.

Tasty Dishes of Vegetables

Eggs are of finest quality protein which will toughen and turn leathery at too high a cooking temperature and with too long cooking. So perhaps there is more truth than humor in the old saying, "She can't even boil an egg."

Soft Boiled Eggs
To make soft-cooked eggs, start them in boiling water, turn down the flame and let eggs stand in the water at a gentle simmer for 5 minutes. For medium-cooked eggs, proceed as above, but let stand in simmering water for 3 to 5 minutes. For hard-cooked eggs, start in cold water bring to boil, then simmer gently over low flame for 15 to 20 minutes, according to size of egg. Jumbo eggs naturally require more cooking time in all cases. Over-cooking of eggs should be done at a moderate to low temperature.

An egg main dish, ordinarily, may be baked at 350°, unless indicated. The storage of eggs for even one day or two is also of great importance. Eggs should never be left at room temperature but always placed in the refrigerator at a distance from foods with a strong odor, since the egg shell, being porous, will absorb the odor.

Carrot Souffle
Now for a splendid dish, geared to present supplies, a highly nourishing carrot souffle which will taste even better if both eggs and carrots are back-garden produce. Melt 3 tablespoons fat over low flame, then add 3 tablespoons flour. Blend until smooth and mixture bubbles over the heat, then stir in one cup milk. Add one cup cooked carrots put through a sieve, and the yolks of 3 eggs, stirring until blended. Add salt and pepper to taste and a dash of paprika, and let cool. Beat the 3 egg whites until stiff, then fold into the carrot mixture. Pour into a greased casserole and set in pan of hot water. Have oven preheated to 350° or moderate and bake the souffle for 30 minutes, or until firm and delicately browned.

NEW YORK, April 21—For evening-to-morning league scores lead us to wonder whether the 1943 model baseball really is over its just the others.
And what became of the idea that managers wouldn't let their players just sit out the days when more than four or five games in the early games in the Park and Braves plan to play a matinee game in June for the benefit of war workers. Well, that's our way of discouraging absentees.

Big Time Stuff—New York City, which always has been a busiest league town when it came to providing sports for kids, is now coming up with a first-class competitive program this spring. Now, with $10,000 prize money, the department of parks expects an entry of more than 20,000 boys and girls in 13 events, ranging from basketball and softball to shuffleboard and the kids' baseball and softball.

Service Dept. — If you have any ical education.

Rene LaBell, John Vansky
Tangle at Armory Tonight

In making arrangements for tonight's wrestling program, Promoter Les Fiebaugh ran into considerable difficulty in trying to determine which of the three men would be most eligible for the main billing.

Fiebaugh writes: "The six factors I signed for Tuesday's card were to make equal and matched together they made three equally important fights.
So I took a risk in the dark and picked Rene LaBell and John Van-sky for the main tussle."

The other two matches Fiebaugh decided would be 45-minute semi-final affairs. In one are Eddie Jones and Steve Nenoff.
Jones, the soprano, New York City star, has been slowed up considerably because of a serious ear injury suffered in a bologna eating event in February. However the spry Hartford star contended recently,
"Even with a sore ear I can whip Nenoff."

The second 45-minute upside match might feature amateur hill billy Buddy Knox of Nashville, Tenn.

Explaining why LaBell and Vansky were named for the main event, Fiebaugh's letter continued: "John has figured in some of the biggest matches recently at the Armory and the French-Canadian has been doing a good job winning over Latry, Kasabowski and Maurice LaChappell in the last two weeks."

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELL GARRISON

AT THIS character, ready to have her by his side in his "great masterpiece," "Madge" was prepared like Katharine. I looked steadily at her and realized that she had the grace to drop her eyes.

"I had no business to say that," she said remorsefully. "I'm sorry."

"You ought to see it now, very," Jack has shown me pretty clearly what he thinks of wildflowers women, and you know he wouldn't care a second thought to any danger Ruth Hayes might incur should she discover his whereabouts."

"But you are distinctly different. Jack will do anything, risk anything, to keep danger from you. And yet, I am certain that he would give anything in the world

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Wartime Eating Problems.

All of our daily habits are being disrupted by the war and there is no prospect that the situation is going to improve. Even if peace were declared tomorrow, troops would still have to be sent abroad in order to replace those who have taken their turn at service. In medical schools we believe that practically all doctors being graduated from medical schools will be inducted into service up to at least 1950.

I sat in on the discussions of the house committee of a small hospital and it is astonishing how many problems come up which apparently can't be anticipated and there is no good reason to believe that the situation will be bettered within the next two or three years.

Our eating habits have been completely changed and will remain so for some time.

One feature in the change in eating habits is the amount of eating that is done outside the home. In 1929 there was an average of $175,000,000 a month spent on eating in restaurants and eating and drinking places. In October, 1942, there was $502,000,000 spent. These changes are due to the population groups which have moved into war industry centers and have not found proper facilities for living quarters, parents working away from home, increased employment in large cities and towns.

Not only this, but the amount of food which is being served in these places is increasing. In 1929 dollar sales in eating and drinking places were less than 20 per cent of the total retail sales of food stores. Now they are running around 30 per cent.

All of these things bring problems. Restaurant help is at a premium and often it is difficult to enforce the sanitary regulations which should be imposed upon all food workers. Sanitary officials now have to visit restaurants at night.

An extremely important sanitary precaution which could be instituted is the use of paper cups, paper plates and utensils as much as possible. With the breakdown in the inspection of restaurant workers, the washing of plates, cups, saucers, is often done carelessly, and cross infection is very likely to spread. Even in the best restaurants and eating places patrons should feel that their interests are being served by the use of such paper utensils.

Dish Washing

The technique required by the Bureau of Standards of most health departments for the washing of dishes in a restaurant is quite strict. It cannot be left to a sloopy worker for the reason that cross contaminations of infections from the lungs or digestive tract are very likely to occur unless the temperature of the water and other factors are carefully observed. Already we have reports from some cities that such infections have occurred from neglect of these methods. A great deal of it can be prevented by the use of paper cups and utensils.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. M. — Could a temperature of 99° in a girl of nine years be caused by a nervous condition, or does there have to be a physical condition to account for it? Is it dangerous to allow a child running this temperature to go ahead with normal activities?

Answer: I would regard this as sufficiently serious to require a careful physical examination. It should not be explained away by the comforting thought that it is due to nervousness. I believe a tuberculin test and an x-ray of the chest should be done in order to eliminate tuberculosis positively. I certainly do not believe the child should indulge in normal activities.

ALTHOUGH there may be some auspicious phases to business endeavors, judging by conflicting planetary aspects, there may be need of sagacious and calculated efforts to effect a disruptive influence which may find reactions in the business as well as private affairs. The best way to circumvent this stalemate may be by the employment of new and constructive ways for breaking up stale or baneful conditions. There may be public or community approbation and substantial support for ingenuity. Similar tactics might avert calamity in purely private associations.

Those whose birthday it is may have to employ much originality, ideas, plans and methods in order to turn aside certain obstacles.

A child born on this day may have much creative ability, backed up by sound and steadfast methods and innovations, winning public approval. Its private life may not be so constructive or happy, because of depressions or morbidity.

Doubts Dispelled

My last doubt of her real feelings for her vanished when I found whatever romantic appeal Hal Merle had had to her in the days of Jack's long and strenuous single had gone as soon as she learned of Jack's danger, and knew the real value was implanted in the true story of Ruth Hayes in answering their letters to each other. And to cap everything off was the assurance Jack had given me of his undivided love to Katharine.

In my thoughts I waited a good while to let that patient and charming boy Hal Merle, then come back to Katharine. With her appeal echoing in my ears, I took with sudden resolution.

"I'm going to do something drastic," I said, "that I want you promise first to lie down on that bed of mine, draw the screens over you and remain perfectly quiet until I return. You may read, if you wish, I'm not going to answer any questions now, and I'll be back as soon as I can."

Appeals to Spencer

From my closet I took hat, coat, scarf, gloves and purse, then stooped and kissed her, already lying on the bed.

"If Father comes through, prepare to be telepathic," I said. "If the doorbell rings, deal with the call as you think best. I'll be back within an hour."

I knocked at the camouflaged door, then went through it as my father threw it open. I had put on my hat, and he looked at me with elevated eyebrows.

"I may have to take this off again," I said, "but I am preparing for an errand I hope I will be permitted to perform."

"Yes," he said non-committally.

"Father," I said, "Katharine's keen mental suffering and my realization that if I were in her place I would be as nearly crazed as she is, compels me to put a question to you."

The eyebrows came down, and into his eyes crept an expression which gave me sudden hope.

Makes No Promise

"I will hear your question," he said, "but I do not promise to answer it."

"Is the determination to keep Katharine from seeing Jack his decision only?" I asked quickly, "based on his fear for her, or have you some reason of your own for keeping them apart?"

He gave me a steady look as he countered with another question.

"Suppose I told you I had a good reason for keeping Katharine away from Jack?"

"I trust I am a good soldier," I said. "In that case, I shall take off my hat, and go back to my apartment."

SHOE PROBLEM

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MCPEPPERSON, KAS. — A McPherson merchant has a corps of wax models for his display windows. He doesn't deal in shoes. Before shoe rationing, he borrowed shoes from a shoe merchant. Now he's tried to buy shoes but couldn't get any No. 17 coupons for wax blenders.

He appealed to the race, but meanwhile, says he, it's an outrage that his mannequins have to stand around in their bare toesies.
